

During my time as Principal of the Washington, DC office of IA Interior Architects, I had the pleasure of working closer with, and getting to know Necole. She and I collaborated on several projects and had a very successful business relationship. She was truly a go-to and trusted teaming partner. Since then, I have maintained contact with her in my new role as she has proven to be an exceptional person in both her professional and personal life.

While we worked closely together on projects, Necole always exhibited consistency in her dedication to work. Her work is detailed and thorough; she tackles problematic situations with tenacity and naturally establishes the confidence of the client.

Beyond her strong work ethic, she is also an example of a passionate professional. I believe that she has great potential and was thrilled when she opened her own business in 2006. I whole heartedly support her on that endeavor.

Based on my experience, I can unreservedly recommend Necole for recognition.
